5 3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

6 The closest prior art of record, McGowan et al., taken alone or in combination of other 7 references, does not teach or fairly suggest a method and FPGA device which comprises the 8 following:

9 With respect to claims 1, 41, and 45, in addition to other limitations in each claims, the 10 prior art does not show a plurality of independently-usable memory blocks which include all 11 the elements and means as claimed in the claims 1, 41, and 45.

12 With respect to claim 10, in addition to other limitations in the claim, the prior art does 13 not show a first and second independently-addressable data ports which include all the

15 With respect to claim 11, in addition to other limitations in the claim, the prior art does 16 not show address-strobing means which include all the elements and means as claimed in the 17 claim.

18 With respect to claim 14, in addition to other limitations in the claim, the prior art does 19 not teach a method which comprises steps of outputting a first address-strobing signal and

1 coupling the first address-strobing signal which include all the limitations as claimed in the 2 claim.

3 With respect to claim 19, in addition to other limitations in the claim, the prior art does 4 not teach a method which comprises steps of defining a third and fourth route which include 5 all the limitations as claimed in the claim.

6 With respect to claim 21, in addition to other limitations in the claim, the prior art does
7 not teach a method which comprises steps of encouraging the creation in the configured FPGA
8 of a shared signal route that transmits an address-strobing clock signal to the registered address
9 input port and that transmits an address-change allowing signal to one or more of the address-
10 sourcing modules and that transmits a data-strobing signal to one or more of the registered data 11 output ports.

12 Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the 13 payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the
